International workshops

Three international workshop days were held on [insert dates], bringing together teachers, educators, trainers, and project partners to work on practical uses of ChatGPT in inclusive education.

The programme focused on prompt writing, lesson planning, and the adaptation of teaching to different environments, routines, and learner needs.

THE GUIDE

One of the main results of this work is the ASK - Practical Guide to ChatGPT in Inclusive Education

The guide was developed as a practical resource for teachers and educators who want to use ChatGPT in a more informed and useful way in everyday school work.

Rather than offering general discussion about AI, the guide focuses on tasks that matter in real educational settings.

It looks at how ChatGPT can help with writing prompts more clearly, adapting texts and materials, supporting comprehension, preparing activities, and planning lessons with greater attention to accessibility and learner needs. It also includes classroom examples, practical suggestions, and guidance on ethical and safe use in school contexts.

The guide brings together the work carried out across the project and turns it into something teachers can actually use: not a theoretical text, but a working tool built around school practice.

It will be available in English, Italian, and Latvian and shared through the project partners and their websites.
